TARBORO': OCT. 18.

Wounded Confederate Officers.

The Richmond Dispatch of Thursday, contains a list of the wounded Confederate Officers at Antietam, taken from the following, from this State:

Capt. J. Howard, Co. B. 2nd North Carolina—shoulder and thigh.
Second Lieut. R. L. Witherington, Co. F. 2nd North Carolina—head and foot.
Lieut. Quince, Co. — 3rd North Carolina—brought in on litter dead.
Second Lieut. W. A. Threadgill, Co. C. 14th North Carolina.
Lieut. H. H. West, Co. H. 20th North Carolina—shoulder.
First Lieut. J. Y. Whitted, Co. G. 27th North Carolina.

Small Pox at Rocky Mount.

We regret to learn that three cases of small pox have been reported at Rocky Mount. The first was brought there by Mr. Warren Spicer, from Virginia.

Confederate Congress.

This body closed its session on Monday evening last, to meet again in January next.

Council of State.

Gov. Vance has summoned the Council of State to meet in Raleigh on Saturday the 25th inst.

The State Journal.

We invite attention to the advertisement of John Spelman, Esq., Editor and Proprietor of the State Journal. Mr. S. will issue his paper on the 1st Nov. next, Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly, at $6, $4, and $2, respectively, per annum.

The 30th Regiment.

We regret to learn that Col. F. M. Parker, of this regiment, was seriously wounded in the battle of Sharpsburg. He was struck by a Minnie ball on the head, the ball fracturing and taking off a part of the skull. We sincerely trust that Col. Parker may recover from the effects of this wound. He is deservedly respected and beloved by his regiment, and a braver man never drew a sword. We learn that the 30th regiment displayed great coolness and courage in the battle referred to. We are yet without the list of killed and wounded in the regiment.—Raleigh Standard.

Death of Capt. Tumbro.

We regret to announce the death of Capt. Alexander D. Tumbro, formerly of company D, 4th State Troops. He expired at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Knight, in Edgecombe county, on Friday last, of pulmonary disease. He was in the 28th year of his age. Capt. Tumbro volunteered early in the war, and was made Captain of the company above referred to. No officer or soldier conducted himself with more fidelity or courage. Though naturally feeble, and though his health was visibly declining, he remained in the service as long as he could possibly perform his duties. He was in that desperate and glorious charge with his regiment, in one of the battles below Richmond, in which Col. Grimes so distinguished himself; and during the action he fell from exhaustion, while leading on his men.

Capt. Tumbro served his apprenticeship in the Raleigh Standard office as a printer. He was a dutiful, industrious youth, and gave promise of that future usefulness which has been cut short by the hand of death. With his friends and relatives we lament his death; but he leaves behind him a reputation for patriotism, courage, and moral character which will be a valuable legacy to his orphan child.

Raleigh Standard.

The Yellow Fever.

The Wilmington Journal of Monday gives a melancholy account of the progress of the fever. A cold rain on Saturday night produced awful effects upon the cases of fever, of which there were 500. The mortality on Saturday night and Sunday exceeded anything that has been known since the epidemic commenced, or since Wilmington has been a town. The particulars cannot be given. The number of new cases on Saturday was 53, and probably 40 on Sunday.

The publication of the Journal was suspended after Monday on account of sickness among the employees, but a bulletin will be issued daily giving the progress of the fever and other matters of interest. The regular issue will be resumed shortly.

We copy the following from the Journal:

Our Situation.

We are forced to succumb for a time to the pressure of absolute necessity. Our pressman is gone. Our colored man who cut wood and attended to the engine and other things, took sick Saturday night, and has not recovered since. We are reduced to three compositors and the two proprietors, is still further reduced this morning. We have neither folders nor mailing clerks left. Matters of the utmost importance called the associate editor off in haste yesterday. He will return as soon as possible. The writer of this article has four sick servants on his hands, which, with the occasional attention proper to be paid to seeing after our sick workmen, and other things, renders the editing of a paper at best an uphill business; but one that he has felt bound to attend to as long as there was a physical possibility of issuing it. It is no longer physically possible.

We trust in a few days or a very few weeks at farthest, to be able to resume our regular and full issue. In the meantime we will try and issue such bulletins about the fever and other matters of stirring interest as will keep our people posted. We can do no better. We can hardly do that. We will stick to our post and do all in our power.

War News.

A telegraphic dispatch from Chattanooga, of the 14th inst. announces that a gentleman through from Franklin, Ky., states that he received the Louisville Journal of the 10th inst., which has the following: A battle occurred at Perryville yesterday, over which Kentucky will mourn for several years. Federal loss Twenty-five Thousand in killed wounded and missing. Prentice says it was a drawn battle. Another man a paroled soldier just arrived at Murfreesboro' from Kentucky, says the battle commenced Wednesday the 5th inst., which day he was taken prisoner. On that day our forces fell back six miles through the valley, planting artillery on the other side, when the fight was resumed on Thursday morning. Our army mowed the enemy down, and the slaughter is represented as awful.

Stuart's Cavalry.

We learn from a telegram received at this place dated Richmond, Oct. 14, that Gen Stuart had just returned from another grand round of McClellan's army with a force of cavalry and artillery, passing through Maryland directly North into Pennsylvania, capturing a number of towns, Mercesburg and Chambersburg amongst the number, destroyed a large amount of ordnance and army stores, and taking large numbers of prisoners and horses; and on returning to the Potomac, cut his way through General Stone's division, and crossed without the loss of a single man.

Battle of Sharpsburg.

The official report of Federals killed and wounded at the battle of Sharpsburg is 12,552. The N. Y. Tribune admits a loss, in killed, wounded, and missing, of 28,000.

Surgeon General Hammond reports at Washington that 3,000 dead Confederates have been buried on the field at Sharpsburg by the Federals, and that 600 remain unburied.

From the Raleigh Standard.

The Forced Loan.

The tax-bill of the House of Representatives, or the forced loan, has been defeated. This was a most unjust and dangerous measure. It was not, in fact, a revenue bill, but a provision for a forced loan from the people, similar to the forced loans resorted to in Mexico and South America!

We are glad to see that Mr. Bridgers, of this State, raised his voice against this measure. We copy from the Dispatch the following summary of his remarks:

"Mr. Bridgers, of N. C., occupied the floor in opposition to the bill. Whilst it professed to impose taxes for the support of the Government, it could not be concealed that it was a measure to enforce a loan. There might be authority in the Constitution for the enactment of such a bill, but he had been unable to discover it. It was contended by the supporters of this measure that the present high prices of the necessities of life were attributable to the immense issue of Treasury notes; but, in his opinion, these enormous prices were owing to the increased demand and an inadequate supply. If this bill was passed, the necessities of persons upon whom the bonds would be forced would compel them to throw them in the market, thus creating a competing element in the market, well calculated to depreciate the bonds of the Government. How could the operations of such a bill inspire confidence in the Government? The bill was unjust in its provisions, in that it discriminated between the speculator and the producing classes of the Government. The effect of the adoption of such a measure would have an injurious effect abroad. It would be at once declared that the people had no confidence in the financial condition of the country."

PROSPECTUS

OF THE
DAILY STATE JOURNAL,
ON and after the 1st day of November next, the State Journal will be published
Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly.

The Daily State Journal will contain all the news received up to the latest hour before mailing, and will consist of Two Editions Daily. The Morning Edition will contain the news by the evening mails, and all Telegraphic news up to 10 o'clock the previous night, and will be supplied to city subscribers and sent by the morning mails North and East; the Evening Edition will be printed at 3 o'clock, p. m., and will contain the additional news by Telegraph up to 2 o'clock, p. m., and will be sent to subscribers by the trains West and by the Fayetteville mail. Thus subscribers, no matter in what direction they may live, will have the news up to the departure of the mails.

Arrangements have been made to procure Telegraphic news from all parts of the Confederacy, expressly for the State Journal. General news by mail will be promptly published. The markets will be fully reported. Reliable correspondents will be secured, to the Army and elsewhere. The Legislative proceedings will be reported daily by competent Reporters. The State Journal will be essentially a Newspaper.

DIED.

In this county, on Monday last, at the residence of Mr. F. H. Knight, of Edgecombe county, N. C., Frederick Wiggins, son of Dr. H. E. Lewis, in the 13th year of his age. Could the hand of death have been stayed by the prayers and exertions of his father and friends, he would now be with us.

Like the dew on the mountain,
Like the foam on the river,
Like the bubble on the fountain,
He is gone—and forever."—Com.

OBITUARY.

Died of diptheria, in this county, Sunday the 5th inst., at the residence of her uncle, Kenneth Thiippen, Pattie Griffin, daughter of James H. and Mary E. Griffin—aged four years. Ere the spring time of infancy had kindled its warmest rays; the icy hand of death congealed the vital spark, and the spirit fled to that "bourn from which no traveller returns." Her mornings were brief and sweet, for the evening of tender youth had not yet received its twilight shadows. But alas! the objects we love most are soonest to perish.

She was a bright and promising child, and bid fair to cherish the fondst hopes of her dotting parents, when the early days of life, should have matured into bright and delicate womanhood. That fond father knows not as he hurriedly throws himself down to sleep at night, amidst the strife and pain of a soldier's life, far away from home and friends, that his only, and darling child is sleeping beneath the fresh dust of a new grave.

But a few days previous to little Pattie's illness, she asked her mother for her pa's type—after grasping it in her little dimpled hands, she kissed it, and looked up to her mother singing—

"Shall I never more behold thee,
Never hear thy winning voice again."
Though but four years old, she could articulate very distinctly, and always seemed desirous of learning something new each day.

Her little voice was rapidly growing softer and sweeter, and she had acquired great control over it.

Alas! we shall no more hear those musical strains vibrated on earth—they have been borne away on angel's wings, to a brighter, holier sphere, to sing praises forever and ever through endless years.

"Dear to my heart as life's warm stream,
Which animates this mortal clay,
For thee I court the waking dream,
And deem with smiles the future day;
And thus beguile the present pain
With hopes that we shall meet again."—S.

J. R. PITT.

Sept. 16, 1862.

A PROCLAMATION

By Z. B. VANCE, Governor of North Carolina.

WHEREAS, information has reached me that certain persons, unmindful of the calls of patriotism, and forgetful of the duties of good citizens, are using their influence to prevent obedience to the law of Congress known as the Conscription Law, and that others are attempting to organize an open resistance to its execution; and whereas, such conduct being not only in direct violation of law, but also detrimental, in the highest degree, to the cause of our country, it becomes my sacred duty to prevent and repress the same by all the means in my power:

Now, therefore, I, ZEBULON B. VANCE, Governor of North Carolina, do issue this my proclamation, warning all such persons to desist from such unpatriotic and criminal conduct; earnestly hoping that all who are disinclined to defend their homes themselves, either by reason of age, infirmity or cowardice, will cease to dissuade those who are willing and notifying positively all persons contemplating an armed resistance to the law, if there really be any such misguided and evil-disposed persons in our midst, that they will commit the crime of treason, according to the Constitution, and must expect to escape its penalties.

Whilst thousands upon thousands of our best and bravest have cheerfully obeyed the law, and by their patriotic valor have driven the enemy back to the Potomac, it would be an intolerable outrage upon them to permit others to evade the law, or worse still, to resist it by open violence. Let no
